

written by Lauri Moon | September 24, 2019

As the lean value stream quickens, a traditional organizational structure becomes costly and cumbersome. To adapt, employees need to be trained to operate as self-directed work teams within a product family or along a supply chain. We've entered the era of the "Autonomous Workforce," the next logical step in a company's lean journey. Learn why this transformation is necessary and how to prepare your organization to make it.

Lean Your Team