

Digital Manufacturing: Driving Product Innovation and Personalization

written by Lauri Moon | March 7, 2019

Today's manufacturers are faced with a competitive environment that demands more innovative, unique, highly-configured products and services designed to fit customers' specific needs. Of course, this has a significant impact on the way that these manufacturers design products and manage customer communication as they build quotes and deliver on promises. Does your organization have what it takes to differentiate itself through customer engagement?

In this webinar, Infor's Director of Industry and Solution Strategy, Nick Castellina, and Vice President of Strategy for Infor Configure Price Quote, Ron Eismann will discuss the importance of customer communication for meeting manufacturer's needs. You'll learn:

- The major trends that are impacting manufacturers today
- Best practices for managing the quote-to-order process
- Strategies for linking design and delivery
- Tips for devising a digital transformation strategy focused on innovation
