

Freight Management Webinar

written by Lauri Moon | March 5, 2021

The transportation of goods and material is critical to a company's growth and even survival. Supply chain can be considered the "life blood" of a company. To insure that goods and material get to where they need to be, when they need to be there, and at an acceptable price, it is important that a company manages the process. To accomplish this, it is necessary to understand the options, benefits and disadvantages, and price structures of the various transportation options.

This program will review all modes of transportation and provide an understanding of the key elements of each.

This program will cover:

- What is Freight Management?
- Types / Modes of Transportation
- Rates
- Volume factors
- Rate Negotiations / Contracts
- Advantage / Disadvantage of different modes of transport
- Carrier Selection

The webinar will be presented by Bob Imbriani, Executive Vice President, International, Team Worldwide.
