

New Challenges for Employers as They Return to Work After COVID-19

written by Lauri Moon | May 26, 2020

Once President Trump announced the “Opening Up America Again” guidance on April 16, which provides discretion to state governors and local officials to make individual determinations about relaxing return-to-work and non-essential business closure orders, states immediately began to announce their plans for reopening businesses. Businesses will soon reopen, presenting employers with new challenges as part of the next phase of the COVID-19 pandemic. Business guidance and legal requirements are changing rapidly. This webinar will discuss changes implemented that employers must be ready for as states reopen for business. This webinar session will cover:

- How to prepare for taking temperatures and making spatial changes in the workplace
- Handling employees that refuse to work
- Managing your suppliers to ensure they’re adhering to your EHS requirements
- Assessing the workplace for PPE, including face coverings
- What potential legal claims employers could face, including OSHA claims

Register

By clicking above, I acknowledge and agree to Endeavor’s Terms of Service and to Endeavor’s use of my contact information to communicate with me about offerings by Endeavor, its brands, affiliates and/or third-party partners, consistent with Endeavor’s Privacy Policy. In addition, I understand that my personal information will be shared with any sponsor(s) of the resource, so they can contact me directly about their products or services. Please refer to the privacy policies of such sponsor(s) for more details on how your information will be used by them.