This 90-minute training program will equip supervisors with the knowledge to monitor employees' compliance with the organization's drug and alcohol polices. This session will cover:

- How to identify observable and workplace concerns related to medical marijuana use

- How to engage employees in discussions about policy adherence
- How to explain the potential consequences of non-compliance

Practical examples will be provided to help supervisors navigate real-world scenarios effectively and will guide supervisors on conducting an effective interview, including key do's and don'ts when addressing concerns related to reasonable suspicion.

Three great reasons to attend this 90-minute webinar

- Reduce your fears about how to approach sensitive situations when you have suspicion
- Gain confidence in your approach to reducing the risk of accidents, injuries and liability with potentially impaired employees
- Minimize time-wasting gossip and drama by promptly addressing situations

Participants will receive 1.5 hours of SHRM professional development credits.

IMC is recognized by SHRM to offer Professional Development Credits (PDCs) for SHRM-CP® or SHRM-SCP® recertification activities.

Who Should Attend

Supervisors and Managers, Safety Managers, Human Resource Personnel, Health & Safety Committee members, Quality Control and Inspection, Maintenance and Equipment Operators. This program is essential for individuals who are in positions of authority, supervision, or who have safety-critical responsibilities.
