Why Attend?

The upcoming revision of ISO 9001 is expected to be the most significant update since the 2015 version. Based on the current published draft, manufacturers could see expanded expectations related to:

- Stronger leadership involvement and accountability
- Organizational culture and ethics
- Risk and opportunity management
- Climate and external business factors
- Digital work environments
- Supply chain communication and behavior

If your organization is currently certified to ISO 9001:2015, NOW is the time to understand what could be changing and how those changes may impact YOUR quality management system. Content shared will be based on published draft revisions and industry direction.

Who Should Attend?

This webinar is designed for: manufacturing executives, plant managers, operations leaders, quality managers, quality engineers, ISO management representatives, internal auditors, continuous improvement professionals, supply chain and procurement leaders

Whether your organization is ISO 9001 certified today or considering certification in the future, this webinar will provide valuable insight into the direction of the standard.

Key Takeaways

Attendees will leave with:

- A clear understanding of anticipated ISO 9001:2026 revisions
- Insight into how the changes may affect existing management systems

- Practical recommendations for early preparation
- Awareness of potential certification transition considerations
- Opportunity to get answers to questions from an ISO expert
